

The International Maritime Transport and Logistics Conference

Marlog 11

“Towards a Sustainable Blue Economy”

Prof. Dr. Maja Fošner

Dean, Faculty of Logistics, University of Maribor, Slovenia.

Professor Dr. Maja Fošner studied mathematics at the former Pedagogical faculty at the University of Maribor, her diploma work based on the original scientific paper written together with her supervisor, for which she was awarded with Perlach award, which means one of the highest award for the students in Slovenia. At the same year she was employed as a young researcher at the Institute for Mathematics, Physics and Mechanics in Ljubljana. Parallel she got employment as an assistant of mathematics at the former Pedagogical faculty at the University of Maribor.

She has her PhD in mathematics and her research area was Super Algebras and Graded Algebras. After her PhD she started her pedagogical work at the Faculty of Civil Engineering University of Maribor and in one year she became assistant professor. In the academic year 2005/2006 she started to work at the Faculty of Logistics University of Maribor.

Soon after her employment at the Faculty of Logistics she was elected as a vice dean for education. At this position she was elected three times and in the mean time she was and she is still a member of the Senate of the Faculty and the Senat of the University of Maribor. She is also a member of some other bodies at the Faculty and the University. At the Faculty of Logistics she was also the chair of the department of Quantitative methods. All these years she took care about international Summer school at the Faculty of Logistics. She took a lot of other activities for the development of international activities for international relationships, what also include preparing study programmes in foreign language.

She was elected at European Council for Business Education (ECBE) as an evaluator for international accreditations. In 2015 she was elected as one of seven members of Board of Directors at ECBE. In the year 2010 she became also an evaluator at NAKVIS (National Agency for Accreditation of Study Programmes in Slovenia). Already as an evaluator and later as ECBE Board member she visited several European and Russian institutions. During all this period she was also invited professor at some Universities, and she also participated several international scientific conferences, where she presented her scientific research papers. Additionally, she was also a head of several bilateral projects and Erasmus + project.